"Where They All Go."

That Magic Lantern.

Did you ever get excited over a darning-egg lantern-slide entertainment? Well we never did until the Rev. J. W. Oliver started these Friday evening entertainments at the church this week.

When these entertainments were first started the writer was not very enthusiastic about them, for after a strenuous day at the store, poking the stove, and taking talks, shoe-laces, hats, and cold drinks, we were glad to get home and wait for that glorious moment to arrive, when we could say to the wife, "you take the kiddies to the lantern slide entertainment this evening," so that we can enjoy a smoke, and read the magazines.

But now what has happened. The Rev. Oliver has thrown so much enthusiasm into these entertainments, and is keeping them with a howling success, that father is the one that now does the dancing around the house at 7 p. m. because mother is not ready, and it takes so much time to get the kiddies to bed, that the show doesn't start until eight. He knows that if he is not at the church by 7:30, he will have to sit on the window ledge, or scratch himself with peeling shingles, while the others are having fun.

The preacher's enthusiasm is keeping some of the baby red chairs in reserve on one corner of the platform, but there are times when even these are occupied by Geo. Orr, H. McPherson, and many others, and the kiddies are crowded even to the top of the piano.

We won't say that the Rev. Oliver has missed his calling, but we do say that he is a great success in his entertainment, and we think that Canada could produce and great credit is due him for the wonderful success that has crowned these entertainments.

The Scottish, Sims Felts, Americans, and Canadians have all taken their turns at taking charge of the entertainment, English slides will be shown, and that our English friend will have charge of the programme. So far we think the Canadians have made the first home run. One amazing feature of the Canadian entertainment was that the English slides were shown in a caboose car in which several of our prominent citizens came west. Geo. Marks could be seen with the coffee pots rustling coffee for the kiddies, while the grown-ups were sitting in upper berths, filling them with upper berths, filling them with sandwiches, the slide immediately following, showed the arrival of J. F. Cassidy's family, at Champion.

The Rev. Oliver says that Friday night will be his night out, and that he will be turned loose, and many seem to think that these English entertainers will give the Canadians a merry chase. It is to be hoped that the Rev. Oliver won't take a nose dive, come out of control, and crash the show into second place. However a big entertainment is looked for on Friday night, for it is rumored that one of the items on the programme, is a new item, and that it is to be a surprise to all. The Rev. Oliver and Mr. E. Gill and we also learn that F. G. Alcock will sing "The Englishman."

We heard Fred sing this song in 1911 and we were fired with patriotism from our bosoms up and Fred himself, with his rhythmic, strong, bago in the final chorus and straightened up like a commanding officer. We trust this report is true and that Mr. Alcock can be persuaded to give this when he comes.

So I would give the people of Champion and district fair warning that if they want to see Johnny Bull in all his glory on Friday night they will have to get there early.

Mr. Oliver has announced that a set of intermission slides will be shown in the near future supported with a heavy programme by the different institutions of the district.

Would you like to go to Campbell's Hall for the evening, for we are looking forward to lots of fun with a heavy crowd in attendance.

And by the way fellow citizens,

when you are attending the Saturday evening service, don't you have been missing some van treats, for the preacher has sent them over the plate straight from the shoulders of the people, and one of the little small town chaps, Turn out and give the church your support.

Another Tax Payer

After reading the article that appeared in our last issue, recently written by a tax payer in our district, G. F. Stait I would like to make a suggestion which should meet with approval of the tax payers of the Municipal District of Huron 12, that the tax collector has published in his paper all the proceedings of each meeting held during this year, including the one of March 8th.

This will enable every tax payer who desires to know what is being done to him to do so.

This is the way most municipal bodies do business, if this suggestion appeals to other tax payers why not consider it.

I imagine the tax payer is not as well informed on local affairs as they would be.

We all talk of Dominion and Provincial affairs, why not post our selves on home first, and our only chance is to get the latest information and not other gossip.

Taxation in Canada (Second Article)

The enormous sums of money required for the purpose of carrying on the war necessitated the finding of new sources of national revenue, and only Canada has been able to meet this emergency with such success. It is in large sums. Existing sources of revenue were expanded to the full extent possible and existing taxes were increased. But that was not sufficient—entirely new schemes in taxation had to be evolved and for the most part they had to take the form of the imposition of direct taxes.

It was of the utmost importance, however, that such taxes, while capable of producing large sums, should be so devised as not to place undue handicap on the producing capacity of the people and the country, because it was felt that the tax on the producing powers of the country should be expended to their utmost and every possible precaution taken not to hamper or curtail production.

The tremendous demand for war equipment and materials of all kinds for the huge armies in the field led to an almost immediate expansion in certain lines of industry, demand exceeded production, and as a natural and inevitable result there was an unprecedented increase. It was equal in amount and insatiable that those men who were engaged in such lines of industry should reap enormous financial benefits and amass great wealth. Thus arose the body of profiteers.

Soon there was a widespread and very popular demand that in levying taxation for war purposes, the Government should specifically single out those who were engaged in history-making industries and profit-making trades. Accordingly, the Government in every country imposed Exchequer Taxation. In such tax schemes there may have been sound enough in practice they worked out very badly, and in many ways detrimental to the country. In some cases they operated to discourage legitimate business initiative and enterprise; they discouraged development and expansion; they encouraged recourse to all sorts of vicious methods for covering up their true cost of production; they imposed a heavy burden of taxation under the heading of so-called expenses of business, and in the case of individuals and firms doing business in a comparatively small way but under great difficulty they were an actual cause of embarrassment.

Before such excess profits taxes were imposed in Canada some men and corporations had been making a killing. In 1914 a second blander was made and the first war loan was issued free from taxation. This was at once opened for the investment of, these millions, and of other accumulated wealth in the safest kind of security, at a high rate of interest, and absolutely guaranteed from taxation, and consequently freed from liability to contribute anything to the upkeep of government or towards the cost of the war. In a word, those best able to pay were relieved of that responsibility.

Another step in the evolution of war taxation in Canada was taken by the imposition of a Federal Income Tax—a field of taxation which had hitherto been regarded as apportioning to the provinces and municipalities. A proper Income Tax is, however, generally recognized as being a fair and proper method, provided the conditions under which it is levied and the method devised for its administration are fair and just.

Canada's new methods devised for the income tax and collection of the Income Tax are such as to arouse most bitter feelings on the part of the people. The system is complicated and highly containing; the administration is autocratic; the manner of enforcing punishment intolerable to a democratic and self-respecting people, and the whole extravagantly expensive in operation.

Instead of a simple plan of administration and collection through existing provincial agencies, a new, elaborate, elaborate and costly machinery was created, employing a small army of men and women. The most minute detailed information is called for, and an enormous list of penalties provided for even minor blemishes in the observance of this elaborate scheme. There are normal taxes, super-taxes, percentage additional taxes, additions for this and subtractions for that, and penalties galore, until the proverbial Philistine is at a loss to know what to do. It is known, what is required of the ordinary individual citizen and what is not.

As a result there stands in existence a new group of middlemen who are reaping a rich reward in advising the poor bewildered citizen how to make out a tax return and thus keep himself out of the clutches of a law he has no desire nor deliberate intention of disobeying. Canada's Income Tax seems to have been framed upon the assumption that the citizens of this Dominion are inherently dishonest and untrustworthy, and in a few instances the tax is being administered in much the same spirit. All right in principle, the Income Tax in Canada is said to need of reform in its details and administration.

A Pointed Protest.

At a dinner given by that famous Committee of One Thousand on last Friday, Mr. Justice Colman, of New York, said that the British Empire must be dismembered if the world is to have peace. The Heart of a Watch

The Balance-Wheel Vibrates Some 432,000 Times a Day.

The heart of a watch is the balance-wheel and unless it is perfectly compensated for the varying changes in temperature it will not pulsate accurately, and will soon cause the watch to lose or gain. On account of the different temperatures which the ordinary watch must withstand, it is necessary that the balance-wheel be made of metal which expands and contracts at rates which offset each other. For this reason the wheel is made of finely-tempered steel, while set around the rim in a much more solid metal, which is checked upon the expansion or contraction of the steel. When it is remembered that the balance-wheel of a watch pulsates some 430,000 times a day, and that the delicate mechanism of a watch is exposed to a range of temperature ranging from body-heat to a number of degrees below zero, it will be seen that precautions such as use of at least two metals are essential to the operation of a watch which will keep time.

A GENTLE LAXATIVE FOR THE CHILDREN

Mother—the sweet way of keeping your little ones well is to keep whether it is the new-born baby or the growing child is to keep their bowels regular.

Never forget of all childhood ailments the result is clogged bowels and sour stomach.

The most effective medicine for little ones is a gentle laxative—something that will relieve constipation; that will not irritate the bowels and natural sleep. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They are a gentle laxative, absolutely guaranteed free from opium or other injurious drugs and may be safely used.

They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and coughs; restore appetite and health and happiness which all children should have.

They are sold by mail order and post at 25 cents a box from The W. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A strong request for a revival of the Board of Trade and the securing of extensive improvements for the village, including electric lights, has been made to the Chronicle representative by a leading business man of the town, who assures that all that is needed to make things go ahead is for the villagers to get together and put their shoulders to the wheel.

The estimates submitted to the House of Commons at Ottawa for the coming year total $582,000,000. It is plainly apparent that there will be nothing but increases in taxation to be looked forward to for some time to come. It is a pity, however, that a government representing the country is not arranging the expenditure. There might be a difference.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, one of the most active members of the official Liberal party in Saskatchewan, endorses with certain qualifications a suggestion that the liberals and the National Progressive party should divide the Saskatchewan constituencies between them at the next elections.

The suggestion was that the Liberals contest the four largest cities and the farmers the other twelve rural seats. Mr. Motherwell in a letter in the Regina Leader, says of this, that "although not as easy to carry out as it appears on the surface, this should be a logical basis upon which to begin any negotiation looking towards co-operation between these two parties even though it is a little one-sided for a province that has been so recently almost solidly Liberal. A 50-50 basis would sound better to some than a 75-25, but the difference between the two should not constitute a span incapable of being bridged."

Mr. Motherwell adds that no plan would suit anyone and that "for instance some politically ambitious Liberal may and quite legitimately, desire to contest some of the more Liberal rural seats, while on the other hand some equally aspiring farmer may desire to contest a city seat under the protection of the recent 'broader out' policy."

He says that "it is fully expected" that some general understanding will be arranged between the two parties, and he suggests that "in certain circumstances when local opinion approves, joint conventions might be held by the farmers and liberals, in order that absolutely sure final might be made of the government high protectionist nominees."

The Experimental Farms System
Remark has several times been made in Parliament and elsewhere that the splendid performed by the Experimental Farms System of Canada is not nearly so widely known and appreciated as it should be. In The Agricultural Gazette of Canada for January there appears an outline of the system and the tasks in which it is engaged. The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa is the headquarters of the twenty branch or auxiliary farms and stations. It is stated that there is one farm in each of the provinces of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Ontario, two in Nova Scotia, four in Quebec, two in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, two in Alberta and four in British Columbia. There are also two radio stations at Alberta, two in Yukon and one in British Columbia. In addition, working with the system are telephone stations at Farmham, Ontario, and at Lethbridge, Alberta, and at Lethbridge, Ontario. One of these experiments and much work of national importance is carried on. Eighty illustrations or demonstrations have also been established in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Each branch of agriculture is dealt with in actual experiment, and the results are made public through the press and by means of addresses, demonstrations and exhibits. In short every effort is made to encourage and benefit agriculture, the basic industry of the country.—Weekly Herald and Star.

The Community As A Social Center.

Written by Mrs. L. M. Groves for the Champion Women's Institute.

The year of 1921 faces us with an insistent call for individual service to the community to which we all owe a certain amount of our time and talent. A community must have its leaders as well as its individuals, as nothing thrives without, so let us all try to do our part even though it is small, to spread a little sunshine over our praises as far as our leaders extend their invitations, and to those with the lesser comforts of life, give not only the smile of welcome but those at home in a care midst. Each community has talent, if wisely used to make better showing than we do. If we will cast aside envy and criticism and meet on equal terms, let broad enough to realize the fish in the sea are not all whales, and not only the big ones but help them on another step up the ladder, how much better our social centre would be.

In the hall here, where we all see so much of one another, is where the best in us should be given in the cause of home and country. How many ladies here this afternoon owe the hour spent to someone looking after the home? Do we show the community spirit enough to those that assist in our home, and realize that if they did not help us we would have those same duties to do, and make them feel they are needed in our social centre, not only as a helper but as one of God's own children.

Meets second Thursday in each month. Visiting brethren welcome.

same as the rest. As a community we are broad enough to reach out to those who have failed to be all they should. Let me not pride in self so self centred that we cannot be generous to the less fortunate. And remember the living do not only get the benefit, but can inhale fragrance from the gift. Like a smile to the sorrowing and it will enter through grief and leave a ray of life where words fail.

My opinion of "The Community as a Social Center" is that we used lots of smiles and a few flowers, and if we all will stop and look at our own faults before we criticize our neighbor, the community will be on a fair way to sociality. Because one does wrong in the family, the rest are not always to blame. Each house has a closet and a skeleton. Some may be larger than others, let us leave that to God to judge.

Just remember it is not the house that makes the home nor money never made a man or woman. That is the workmanship of God and a good mother, but tried and tried and true friendship.

As the leaders of our community do we set the example for the younger set, that they may say when we cease to be as a social helper to all good

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wise were visiting in Calgary, returned home on Friday last.

Born—On Tuesday, March 8th, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alder, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Alcock paid Calgary a visit last week and report an enjoyable experience in every way.

Curling has been revived during the cold spell and considerable interest in the game has again been developed.

The Peace River district is to have an extension of railway this year according to a resolution passed by the legislature. They certainly need it. It would appear that most of the credit of the province will be pledged before the irrigation problem is reached.

John Ohlheiser, late of Texas, but for years a prominent farmer of North Dakota, is in the Champion district looking for a desirable farm to rent with a view to purchasing later. He is brother of L. B. Ohlheiser of the Fireguard district.

Preparations for spring work are well under way and are proceeding rapidly. While the weather is not quite so propitious as it was ten days ago, all are anticipating that it will be but a few days now before spring's work will be in progress in this part of the country.

Two rinks of curlers paid Carmangay a visit on Saturday afternoon and played two games each with rinks of that town, the total score being in favor of the Carmangay rinks. The Carmangay curlers entertained the visitors to a good time in every respect, and a return game in the near future is eagerly looked forward to.

Easter Sunday, March 27th. Mrs. F. Clapp, who has been visiting in Calgary, returned home on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Matlock returned from Calgary last week, where the former has been in the hospital for several weeks, recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Matlock is so far recovered that no further danger is anticipated.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Kydd, who have spent the winter at Vancouver, have left or are leaving for New York, where Mr. Kydd will secure medical treatment for his case having proven inadvisable to the physicians at the coast. Hosts of friends in Champion and vicinity will join in wishing Mr. Kydd complete restoration to health in the near future.

Stability In Production And Markets

When greater production of live stock is urged by public speakers or through the press two strong objections are raised by those who are expected to follow the advice. These are the uncertainty of markets and shortage of feed in dry seasons, both of which have spelled discouragement and a more limited field of operations for farmers.

Neither of the adverse influences can be entirely avoided by any legislation of the Government or careful planning of the producer. Yet much can be done to steady the industry so that cattle hogs and sheep can be bred and raised with the assurance that they will command such prices as the world market warrants. It is the duty of the Government to develop in every way possible the home market for these, and, having done that much, to insure that every reasonable facility be afforded for shipment and sale.

At present there is danger of losing the market to the south through the imposition of heavy duties by the United States. As an alternative there is held out the hope of a removal of the British Embargo which would provide an outlet for our cattle. It will not be wise to depend entirely on either one of these channels of trade for the disposal of Canada's surplus meat. It should be possible through diplomacy to retain the privilege of free entry to the United States and through well directed publicity to convince the consumers of Great Britain that they need cheaper meat and more of it.

Another string must be added to the bow in the very near future, in the shape of abattoirs at the seaports as suggested in our issue of Feb. 2nd. Montreal, St. John and Halifax have the advantage of being the trans-Atlantic ports nearest to London, Liverpool and Glasgow. Cattle from Canadian farms that are not fitted for shipment on foot could be slaughtered and despatched immediately in fresh condition.

All this is within the scope of Government action and it is for the Federal Department of Agriculture to take the initiative in the matter. As to the second difficulty: How can the number of live stock be increased and periods of glut and scarcity be prevented? Every few years there is a shortage of feed with an inevitable sacrifice of old and young stock. These lean years with short pastures and little fodder for winter will continue so long as dependence is placed on grass and hay alone. A wet season brings abundance; a dry season means a near approach to famine for live stock. Fodder crops and roots offer the solution. Corn, sunflowers, clover, vetches, oats, millet and a dozen other crops give a wide range of choice. Under proper cultivation corn and sunflowers will yield ten to twenty tons of the most succulent feed. Even in a dry season when death is falling these leafy plants will take enough moisture out of the air to soil to make a heavy cutting. It means more labor, it also means insurance against the years of loss when the bottom seems to fall out of things and a new start has to be made in the building of herds. —F. J. Clapp.

Successful Canadian Lantern Night.

The entertainment given by the Canadian members of the community on the evening of March 11, in the church, was voted by a large section of the audience to be the best since Mr. Oliver's lantern night. The entertainment at his exhibition of slides, of course the decision was scarcely unanimous, as members of rival nationalities who have appeared on previous similar occasions, and some who are not members, can hardly be expected to enhance their own performances of their competitors. A superior brand of talent will certainly be unseated at the lantern exhibition on Friday evening, when representatives of English will present a programme and when slides showing famous bits of English scenery will be thrown on the screen.

The church was filled to capacity last Friday evening, when the following programme was presented:

1. O. Canada...Interprovincial Chor
2. Recitation...W. W. Scott
"When Mother was a Girl"
3. Reading...W. R. Scott
"The Story of the Canadian
4. Recitation...Beauchamp Bradford
"The Canadian Girl"
5. Program of English
6. International Chor
7. Recitation...Flame Woodhull
"The Story of the Canadian
8. Cornell Solo...B. Hummel
9. Singing...G. M. Campbell
"Out Where the West Wind Blows"
10. "The Maple Leaf Forever"

Mr. Geo. Mark acted as chairman, Miss Martha Schulz as accompanist, and Messrs. Campbell and Moffatt presented as the leaders of the near-sighted, the local celebrities who were seen in the lantern vi.
